

The Nurse-Midwife Childbirth Experience

Nurse-midwives help women create a caring, comfortable birthing environment that caters to each woman's personal needs. You are encouraged to make decisions about everything from the need for or type of anesthesia you prefer, to the labor position in which you are most comfortable. Since we are located within Baystate Medical Center's Wesson Women and Infant's Unit, you can rest assured that, should you need it, we have the most appropriate modern technology at our disposal. Baystate's Wesson Women and Infants' Unit is the premier provider of obstetrical services in the region, and offers the latest medical advances in neonatal care, including the only Level III Neonatal Intensive Care Unit in the area.

Our certified nurse-midwives work in collaboration with physicians to provide primary care to women with low risk pregnancies. Obstetricians are immediately available for consultation during labor or delivery.
